SPECIAL EDITION

We are in receipt of a copy of a "Special Edition" of the Semi-Weekly News, of Somerset, Ky., which paper is now under the management of an old Mt. Sterling man, Mr. Wm. F. Schooler. The paper is brimful of interesting reading regarding Somerset, her people, her progress and her desires, besides a splendid array of advertising which shows the progressiveness of the merchants and the faith they have in the News as a business getter. Keep up the good work "Uncle Bill."

OR JUMP IN THE RIVER

Those who believe that the whisky people contributed to Beckham's campaign and did not to Stanley's please stand on their heads.—Cadiz Record.

WILL LOCATE AT LEXINGTON

Mr. J. Stockwell Samuels, who has been with The Rogers Company, in this city, for several years, has accepted a position with Mitchell, Baker & Smith, a well-known Lexington firm, and will move with his family to that city in a few days to make his future home. Mr. Samuels is a man of long experience in his particular line and certain to prove a valuable acquisition to the staff of this Lexington concern. Many friends here will regret to learn that these excellent people are to leave Mt. Sterling.

Advertising is like patriotism in war time. It is irresistible, and draws the people right into your store. Be patriotic, Mr. Merchant, by being an advertiser.

LET'S TALK AND DO

Spring is coming on and it is quite time for us to get busy and push the agitation for good roads—for the best roads in this whole section of the state.

Nothing much will be accomplished if only a few do the talking. It needs a general talkfest, with everybody talking and demanding better roads at the same time. When the noise gets loud enough some one will hear it and then we will get the road improvements we so greatly need.

The fact that you may live in town is no reason why you should not talk for road improvement. Better country roads mean just as much to the town man as they do to the farmer, for what is good for one is of equal value to the other.

If we want to keep pace with other communities in this state we must have better roads. Hauling produce to market over heavy roads is not a profitable business to any farmer, and we don't want anything in this community that does not begin and end with profit.

We can talk learnedly on the elevation of humanity and kindred subjects if it will serve as a balm to our consciences, but everybody knows that everybody else is out for every dollar he can gather in. And we can not annex any great number of those dollars with a lot of hum roads. That may be a blunt and cold blooded statement, but it is fact, and we all know it.

When we go to the meat market for a steak we want a good one. And good roads are just as essential to our well being as a juicy steak.

Let's everybody get mighty busy and go after the best roads obtainable. Suppose it does cost us a cent or two each to get them. For every cent we spend we will get ten in return. And at most, the expenditure would only amount to a few smokes per man.

We are always ready to set aside a certain date for some specific object—except good roads. Now let's vary the order of procedure and declare 1916 our good roads year, and live up to our declaration.

If we all agitate for good roads and go after even better roads, the end of 1916 will see a wonderful improvement in our country highways.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mr. Henry Manning, an aged farmer of the Camargo section, was severely injured recently when the team which he was driving to a big wagon became unmanageable and run away. Mr. Manning was thrown out, his head striking the road, causing a deep cut, and for a time it was feared his skull was fractured. The injury is a dangerous one and has caused intense pain. Mr. Manning is getting along nicely, however, and it is thought he will recover. He is sixty-five years old and the father of Dr. B. M. Manning, and a highly respected farmer.

CAN FOOL NO ONE

The biggest joke of the whole session at Frankfort was the statement of Col. Ed Taylor, the big distiller, that he did not contribute any money to Stanley's campaign fund, as charged in an affidavit by Elwood Hamilton, one of the most reputable lawyers at the capital, but that he did contribute to a fund to help elect Beckham. Hamilton showed later that Taylor gave the money to help Congressman Campbell Cantrell, who is about as wet as Stanley, and with the distinct understanding with the Franklin county campaign committee that it was not given to help Beckham. Everybody who knows the Taylors—makers of fine whisky—knows that they hate the ground Beckham walks on, and then for the old Colonel to try to make sensible people believe that he gave money to help Beckham and not Stanley. It is to laugh.—Inter-For-Journal.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

To Be Presented by High School Students.

What promises to be one of the most delightful amateur theatricals seen in this city in recent years will be given at the Tabb Opera House, Thursday, March 30th, by the Senior Class of the Mt. Sterling High School.

The play selected this year is that old-time comedy of Goldsmith's, "She Stoops To Conquer." The play is by no means a serious one. There is no attempt at the profound delineation of character, no passages of eloquent sentiment, and very little complication of scene and story. The purpose of the author was clearly set forth when he asked one of his critics, "Did it make you laugh?" "Exceedingly," the critic answered. "Then," said the dramatist, "that is all I require."

The comedy was written in 1773, and was presented a short time later at the Covent Garden Theatre, London. It represents Goldsmith in his happiest mood, and proved an instantaneous success. Since that time it has been recognized as an established classic, and one of the most popular of English dramas. Goldsmith wrote it to make people laugh, and its continued popularity only proves how well it has fulfilled its mission.

The costumes for the coming performance have been ordered from a Cincinnati costumer, and will conform in every detail to the time represented in the play.

Of course we deplore all of this strife that is robbing the world of its glory, but we decline to let it interfere with our Sunday dinners.

TWAS AS WE EXPECTED

Representative Frank Greene, of Carroll county, the dry leader in the late General Assembly, in speaking of the defeat of the bill seeking to limit shipments of liquors from wet to dry territory, which was strangled to death by Stanley's Rules Committee, said:

"Governor A. O. Stanley could have cruised this bill to have come out of the committee by a modest request therefor, and had he done so, he would have caused to be reclaimed his pre-election promise to 'advocate all laws calculated to strengthen the county unit.' There were three interests involved, namely, the brewers and distillers, the bootlegger and the people who want the illegal traffic in liquor stopped. The brewers and distillers and the bootleggers got the ear of A. O. Stanley and they defeated the bill. The people got what they can always expect from A. O. Stanley—nothing. 'Verily, may it be said: Stanley has kept the faith—with the liquor people.'"

THE UPWARD CLIMB

Mary had a little skirt,
The floor it used to sweep;
But upward, we can see
This skirt of Mary's creep.

First we saw the tiny toes
Of slippers neat and trim;
Next we caught just a glimpse
Of ankles small and slim.

Higher crept this little skirt
To top of Mary's shoe,
And then the feet of Mary
Came clearly into view.

And shorter still, inch by inch
This skirt of Mary's grows
Till now we see a wreath
Of Mary's striped hose.

If higher yet climbs this skirt
The time will surely be;
When we can look at Mary
And see her little knee.—Ex.

When an old duffer with a million marries a young girl with a pretty face the devil pronounces his blessings with a wink of the off eye.

But, then, preparedness might even be extended to the commercial welfare of this town.

TWO $50,000 SUITS FILED

James Munday, administrator of the estate of Phillip Black and his nephew, William Piersall, filed suit in the Clark Circuit Court at Winchester last week against the C. & O. Railroad for $50,000 in each case for the death of the two men at the crossing at Pine Grove last September. Black and his nephew were returning from Lexington in their automobile and when crossing the railroad at Pine Grove station were struck by the fast C. & O. train, killing them instantly. Engineer Meadows, of Lexington, and Fireman Cheap, of Mt. Sterling, are named in the petition.

Bullets, like joy riders, never pause to take stock of the damage they inflict.

The Roof of the World

Copyright 1916 General Roofing Manufacturing Co.

From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand,
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sand,
From many a distant shore,
From many a palm-land plain,
They call us to deliver
Their heads from sun and rain.

You will find CERTAIN-TEED affording equal protection from the snow and ice of the Arctic, and the sun and rain of the Tropics. It is literally "the roof of the world".

Making roofing is the General's chief business. He makes one-third of all the roll roofing made in America—thirty-nine other manufacturers make the balance. Such predominance is due to the General's ability to make the highest quality roofing at the lowest cost.

Every advantage that men, money, mills and machinery can offer is used to increase production, maintain quality and lower the cost. The result is that today CERTAIN-TEED, the world's best quality, costs less than inferior roofing cost ten years ago.

CERTAIN-TEED is made of the best quality roofing felt, thoroughly saturated with a scientific blend of soft asphalt, the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then coated with a blend of harder asphalt, which keeps the inner saturation soft and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). Experience proves that it lasts longer.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-surfaced shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CLIPPINGS FROM THE SNAGTOWN TORCHLIGHT

One of the cats at Judge Ledgerwood's home has presented him with a fine litter of kittens that first saw the light of day through the holes in the toes of the Judge's old pair of shoes. The Judge says he will soon have twenty-nine cats.

H. E. Megginson is coming to Snagtown Monday night to deliver a lecture on the advisability of killing all mad dogs before they show signs of hydrophobia. This is one of his latest lectures and is seasonable on account of the approach of the annual dog days of early September. He should have a house so crowded that there will not be any room for him to lecture.

Howard Shelton was hauled home yesterday completely exhausted having been compelled to dig two graves for the burial for his double cousin.

Will St. Aubin will climb to his housetop this next week, and then come down the chimney to remove the soot. All of his children are getting ready to hang up their stockings for the occasion.

Uncle Jack Goodine the blacksmith at Lizzard Springs died a few days ago and was buried among the blackberry bushes in the Gander creek graveyard. He ordered a headboard put up at once with his name on it, so that the public would know that he is no longer in business.

The Snagtown Fiddling Band was summoned to the Panther Ridge school house the other night to furnish music for the magic lantern show, but the bass fiddle jarred the lamp chimneys off and put out the lights.

Capt. Plunkett, editor of the Snagtown Torchlight, (who is us), inherited a little money recently, and we were debating whether to go to Europe or enlarge the paper with it. Well, the war broke out so we decided to do neither, but to spend the money on ourselves here at home, in the hope of having just one good time before we die.

Will Firenecker and Miss Quittie Whimple were tied by Justice Swat Sunday eve. They will housekeep after this.

Asa Flint is back from Brussels, Belgium. He says there is a right smart quarrel over there, and if things don't change there will be a row.

400,000 PERSONS CROSSED ATLANTIC LAST YEAR

Despite the perils of submarine warfare 400,000 persons crossed the Atlantic between American and European ports as passengers last year. Figures assembled in the Bureau of Navigation show that 250,000 of them traveled on vessels owned by the belligerents. Slightly more than half the Atlantic travelers were eastbound, and Italian ships carried more than vessels of any other nation. Only 38,000 of the passengers traveled first class. Two hundred and seventy thousand went in the steerage.

VENERABLE JUDGE ILL

Judge Amos Davis, for many years County Judge of Morgan county and one of the Democratic leaders of the Licking Valley, who was Democratic nominee for Congress in 1908, is quite ill at his home in West Liberty. He is 82 years old, and his friends are apprehensive for his recovery.

ONLY A QUART A MONTH

Lower branch of the Virginia general assembly passed the statewide prohibition bill 85 to 5. The bill has passed the senate. One quart of whisky a month to a person is the limit placed by the bill on importation of intoxicants from other states. The law will go into operation November 1st.

RAPID FLIGHT ON PRINTERS' STOCK

The shortage of raw material now threatens the paper industry of the country, and the big paper mills are on the verge of shutting down because they cannot get rags for paper making. The Duponts have been buying rags in such large quantities for the manufacturers of gun cotton that the price has jumped from 1½ cents per pound to 4½ cents. As evidence of the uncertain rise in paper stock, one of the large wholesale paper houses sends us the following card:

"PRINTERS' WARNING!"

"Owing to unprecedented conditions in the paper market we warn you against obligating yourselves to your customers unless you are absolutely sure of what your cost of paper will be, and we therefore recommend that all your quotations be made subject to change in price that occurs during the interval between the time that you made the estimate and the receipt of bill covering the shipment. All our prices are subject to change without notice. Our patrons will be protected by us so far as possible, but we have no control over the present situation and may be unable to replace some items of stock when our present supply is exhausted. We ask the same confidence at this time that you have shown us for many years past. We repeat our warning to protect yourselves on all your quotations."

WONDERFUL GROWTH

In the annual report of the directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., issued a short time ago the wonderful growth on subscriber stations was shown by a diagram beginning January 1, 1876 and ending January 1, 1916. There is now one Bell Telephone Station to each eleven of the total population of the United States.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pain in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good I had gotten so weak I could not stand and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

THE MIDDLE AGE

There comes a clear day when one realizes that clothes are to keep the weather off you, that food is to give you health; that home is shelter and inspiration; that, aside from being clean and inoffensive, one's personal appearance does not signify very much; that the main thing in life is to be going toward the goal of your ideals. That isn't getting old, it's getting sense. From then on time is not master, but friend.—Collier's Weekly.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPECTS

The Democrats of the country have a right to feel optimistic regarding the outlook for success this fall. The nearer the day of election draws, the better the prospects appear. The country is experiencing an unprecedented era of prosperity. Farmers, laborers, everybody—are enjoying the best of times. Of course our Republican friends say the war caused this, yet if there was no war in the old world, they would invent some other excuse. It looks like Hughes or Roosevelt will be the Republican nominee, with the odds in favor of the latter. With him, the party will be hopelessly divided, as already half the party is willing to run with him, while the other half is running from him and all admit a gloomy situation is caused by him, since they cannot win with him and unless he is permitted to dictate the nominee and platform, he will again defeat them with a Progressive ticket. In the Democratic party no such troubles exist. In every State in the Union the Democrats and Independents, as well as many conservative Republicans are united and enthusiastic in their support of Woodrow Wilson. That he will succeed himself looks now like a foregone conclusion.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

To Be Given at Tabb Theatre
Thursday, March 30th.

On next Thursday night, March 30th., at the Tabb Theatre, when a cast selected from the students, alumni, and faculty of the High School, presents "She Stoops To Conquer," one will see a play that ran for one hundred nights in London. From the time of its first appearance in 1773, this comedy has had an unbroken record of triumphs. Authorities say it has never been performed without success even by amateurs.

Like all of Goldsmith's best productions it is based upon actual experience. In his young days a wag directed him to a private house for an inn. Goldsmith went there and with much flourish gave his orders for entertainment. The subtitle of the comedy is "The Mistakes of a Night," and truly it is an apt one. The play shows the funny situations which developed when its hero, Tony Lumpkin, sent two lovers to a pretended inn, which was really his own father's house, and the home of the young ladies to be wooed.

If we may quote we would say "..... this play it appears deals largely in laughter and nothing in tears." The author once asked a critic, "Did the play make you laugh?" "Exceedingly," the critic replied. "Then," said the dramatist, "that is all I require." It is really and truly a play of every day life. The plot, though simple, is exceedingly ingenious. All the principal characters are drawn without the slightest exaggeration, and with surpassing truth and spirit. The first scene introduces Mr. and Mrs. Hardeastle, who, in their opening dialogue, give us an insight into their true individualities. Mrs. Hardeastle, played by Miss Marguerite Newmeyer, is a fussy, old lady, full of oddities; fancying herself youthful in appearance and elegant in manners. Her great redeeming trait is her fondness for the oaf, Tony, her scamp of a son. Mr. Hardeastle, played by Malcolm Thompson, is a gentleman in manners and feeling—a little behind the times—but hospitable and with a touch of humor in his nature.

The gentleman and his wife are having a little connubial "spat" when her hopeful son, Tony (Charles Oldham), comes storming into the room on his way to make a "night of it" at the ale house. His mother begs her "boy" to stay with them but he hurries away to join Dick Muggins, Jack Slang and others at "The Three Pigeons" Inn. Soon Miss Hardeastle, (Miss Elizabeth McCoun) enters and her father proceeds to tell her that he expects a young gentleman that evening, the son of a dear friend, in short the person that he has chosen for her husband. Miss Neville (Miss Frances Samuels), soon appears and is told of the news.

In the second scene we find Tony and his crowd having some fun at "The Three Pigeons." They are interrupted by the appearance of Young Marlowe (Prof. J. P. Garies) and Hastings (Carroll Chenault); their coach is at the door; they have lost their way while traveling to the house of Mr. Hardeastle. Tony sees a chance to play one of his impish tricks. He tells the travelers they are many miles from their destination, but they can probably be accommodated at an excellent inn, the Buck's Head, only a short distance away. So he sends them to his own home and the fun begins. The costumes have been ordered

RURAL TRUSTEES ORGANIZE

Promptly at 1:30 p. m., Monday, March 20th, about thirty of the thirty-five Trustees met at the call of the County Superintendent in her office to hear Miss Lida E. Gardiner, State Organizer of Trustees and Community School Improvement Leagues, on the subject of "Preparedness of Trustees, teachers and all connected with the biggest business—that of the schools."

Miss Gardiner expressed herself as highly pleased with the splendid attention accorded her by the audience and predicted for the schools of Montgomery county a much higher standard of work with such a splendid organization as was effected Monday afternoon.

Each and every trustee present seemed greatly interested and more than willing to organize. By unanimous vote Miss Georgin Sladd was elected President of the organization and C. E. Duff Secretary.

April 29th, at 1 p. m., was selected the date for their next meeting at which time the census papers will be returned and the body will be addressed by our worthy State Superintendent, Hon. V. O. Gilbert. For the benefit of the public a few words of explanation as to the object of the organization.

First.—"In unity there is strength" and by a united effort on the part of the trustees much better work can be accomplished.

Second.—To secure a better co-operation with trustees, teachers and parents and thereby raising the standard of education in Montgomery county.

Third.—To encourage the work of the good teachers and secure efficiency in all of the schools.

Fourth.—The trustee is and has been since the establishing of our present public school system, the very foundation of it and the people have not appreciated his services and this organization is for the purpose of elevating his office and to cause the people to appreciate the man who serves his district faithfully as trustee without pay and to give him their hearty co-operation.

Fifth.—All in all this organization stands for a higher standard of schools.

Miss Gardiner will remain in the county this week assisting the local County Superintendent in organizing Community School Improvement Leagues in several districts which will also assist in the educational uplift in the county. We hope in the near future to have many of these Leagues in Montgomery county. She will also return to us to supervise the work of the leagues organized and organize other leagues.

A FELLOW AND HIS LODGE

Some people are lodge crazy and join everything in sight. They are called "joiners." Others are pessimistic and can see no good in any lodge.

But there is much good to be derived from membership in any of the legitimate lodges that flourish everywhere, provided the lodge habit is not carried to excess.

It creates a spirit of comradeship among the members that is seldom found elsewhere. If a member is in distress or difficulty, his lodge promptly comes to his relief and tides him over the rough places and into smoother waters. If he is sick, they cheer him with their presence, and watch at his bedside, and see that his family does not suffer during his incapacity. And in many other ways they are a distinct benefit one to another.

The lodge is the symbol of the brotherhood of man, and its tenets are founded upon the Bible and advocate the elevation of the human race.

The fellow who identifies himself with some good lodge and lives up to its teachings will be a better man and citizen for the few hours he devotes to its meetings.

Needless to say, this story was told of a Kentuckian: A visitor to Heaven was being shown around by Saint Peter. After he had made a circuit and admired the streets of gold, and the singing birds and the beautiful flowers, and was about to go out of the gate again he noticed a group of men over in a corner tied together, looking very disconsolate. "Why, who are those men over there?" he asked St. Peter in surprise. "Oh," said St. Peter, "those are Kentuckians." "But what are they chained up for?" asked the visitor. "We have to keep them tied up," said St. Peter, frowning. "If we didn't they'd all go right back."

Remember, young fellow: The brave man carves out his fortune and every man is the son of his own works.

The wise man, you know, is a man among men, but the fool is just only a fool.

A. E. LERCHE

"If you ever get the blues," he said, "it is well to know the simplest and best way to get rid of them. Crankiness, nervousness and general upset condition preceding the blues usually are due to the relentless grip of constipation on the nervous system. The simplest way to meet this condition is to have a box of Resall Orderlies in your pocket and the best way is to take one when you feel the attack coming on. A HINT THEREIN

A hint upon the importance of preparedness lies in the reports of the Villa invasion and massacre in Columbus. He knifed the sentinels and stormed the town. The machine guns did not work. It matters not why, the fact that they didn't was vital. Columbus was garrisoned. It had expected the attack for days—witness the words of the wife of Lieutenant Castleman, who tells the story of an eye witness. Yet the Mexicans executed a complete surprise.

The advocates of preparedness will find in the Columbus incident a good deal of material for argument. Mexicans, be it home is a hind, are not well armed, and not at all trained, a mere band of ruffians. Yet they did make a pretty big showing when they raided the garrisoned town on the border.

As our own individual contribution, we'll cheerfully furnish the rope to hang Villa.

PAY YOUR BILLS

If every man would pay his bills, just when those hills are due, we'd sidestep many grievous ills which now make people blue. The merchant carries on his books about a million debts, and some who figure there are crooks, and some misfortune's pets. Some hope to play the honest game when they have got the tin, and it may be they'll do that, soon as their ships come in, but some ships travel mighty slow, of winds and waves the sport; some hit the reef of Norman's Woe, and never come to port. The merchants have to charge us more for everything they sell, to cover the defaulter's score, and hence H. C. of L. Whee'er you buy a pound of pills, or quart of pumpkin rind, you're paying something on the bills of those who are behind. If you, who read these simple rules, would pay your bills on time, you'd help to cut the price of prunes, and make your life sublime, so says Walt Mason.

Kentucky's two Republican members in Congress could not drop their political partizanship and show American patriotism by voting to sustain our President, but voted on the Kaiser's side.—Mt. Vernon Signal.

MAKES BAD MISTAKE

Mistaking a small bottle of carbolic acid for cough medicine, Mr. Albert Turley, Thursday, March 9, had a narrow escape from serious injury, when he drank a few drops of the deadly poison. He did not realize his mistake until after taking the bottle from his lips he recognized the odor. Mr. Turley hurried immediately to a physician. He was given epine as an antidote and soon all danger of any ill-effects was removed. Aside from sustaining a few slight burns in his mouth and throat, Mr. Turley is none the worse for wear for his experience.

TO MAKE HAGGIN PLACE HOME FOR WEALTHY COLONY

Reports have reached Lexington that the vast Elmendorf estate of the late Jns. B. Haggin is to be converted into a colony home for Eastern millionaires. Mr. James C. Stone, of Louisville, who is said to have charge of the negotiations, admitted that such a plan was on foot, but that it was yet only in the preliminary stage.

The tentative plan is said to be for the purchase of the entire Elmendorf farm by a group of wealthy Eastern men, who, retaining the present general features of the estate, would assign portions of it to various members of the group for the erection of homes.

Many wealthy men throughout the country, and especially in the Eastern states, are known to have desired to own in the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky a home for a portion of the year, but have been deterred from making purchases by the comparative isolation from their old friends and associates, and the inconvenience of maintaining a separate establishment so far from their centers of business and regular residences.

Elmendorf, with its 10,000 acres, its $500,000 residence, "Green Hills," and extensive improvements, made regardless of expense, is one of the most beautiful and valuable properties of the kind in the world.

Mr. C. H. Berryman, of Lexington, manager of the Elmendorf farm, declined to discuss the subject.

AMAZING AGRICULTURAL ADVANCE IN THE SOUTH

The Manufacturers Record this week publishes an elaborate review of the value of the farm products of the South last year, showing the following astonishing figures:

In 1915 the gain in the value of all farm crops in the United States over 1914 was $526,070,000.

Of this gain $317,200,000, or a little over 60 per cent., was in the South, an amazing illustration of the increase in the diversification of Southern agriculture.

The gain in the entire country, outside of the South, was $208,861,000, or $108,400,000 less than the gain in the South.

The percentage of increase for the South in 1915 over 1914 was 13.85 per cent.

The percentage of increase for the rest of the country in 1915 over 1914 was only 5.25 per cent.

Notwithstanding the great increase in the value of the cotton crop last year, by virtue of war conditions, compared with the high crops and high prices for some years prior to the war, the rate of increase of the South's farm crops over the five-year average from 1909 to 1913 was 6.23 per cent.

Though the cotton crop last year was small and prices were lower than for some years prior to the war, the value of last year's farm crops in the South was $153,000,000 greater than the average value for the five-year period from 1909 to 1913, both inclusive.

Notwithstanding the much lower value of last year's cotton crop compared with 1909 to 1913, while on the other hand the West had large grain crops with high prices due to the phenomenal European demand for foodstuffs, the value of the South's farm crops for 1915 was $2,607,349,000 as compared with $4,181,556,000 for the rest of the country. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates the value of last year's cotton crop, not including seed, at $580,000,000, which we think is probably an ultra-conservative figure. Counting the value of the seed, we believe the crop may be safely estimated at $750,000,000, though no exact figure can be given until the end of the crop season. Taking, however, an estimate of $750,000,000 as the value of the cotton crop, including seed, this would leave as the value of other crops $1,957,000,000, or, in other words, the value of diversified crops was considerably more than two and one-half times as great as the value of the cotton crop and nearly twice as great as the most valuable cotton crop ever produced by the South.

It must be borne in mind that these figures relate to farm crops and not to all agricultural products, for they do not include the value of animal products.

The Department of Agriculture estimates the total value of animal products for the United States in 1915 at $3,849,000,000, but does not attempt to make an estimate as to the value by states.

As the South has almost exactly one-third of the total number of livestock in the United States, it is reasonable to estimate the value of the animal products of this section as approximately one-third of the total value for the whole country. This may possibly be a fraction too high, but it cannot be very far out of the way. Nevertheless, to be on the safe side, we will estimate the value of the South's animal products as 30 per cent. Instead of 33.3 per cent. of the total for the whole country. This would make the total for the South $1,054,000,000. Taking the round figure of $1,000,000,000, to be on the side of conservatism, and adding it to the value of farm crops, we have a total of $3,600,000,000 as the value of all agricultural products of the South last year, and of this only about $750,000,000 was represented by cotton.

Even if we were to take the strictly cotton-growing states of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, it would be found that the value of farm products other than cotton is very much greater than the value of their cotton crops, whereas, when we include the non-cotton-producing states, such as Kentucky, Maryland, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Missouri, we get the strikingly important fact which cannot be too often reiterated and emphasized that the value of diversified farm products of the South last year was $2,850,000,000 against $750,000,000 for cotton. Cotton, therefore, comprised but little more than one-fifth of the total agricultural products of $3,600,000,000 of the South, and the other products were nearly four times as great in value as the cotton crop.

FARMER WANDERS FROM HOME

Taylor Lane, a prominent and widely known farmer of Bath county, wandered from his home on the Spratt farm near Gudehill Hill last Friday, March 10. During the night he arrived at the home of a man named Johnson in the Aarons Run section of this county, where he asked to stay all night. Mr. Johnson refused his request. Early Saturday morning, Mr. Johnson went to the kitchen of his home to kindle a fire and found the man lying by the stove asleep. He awakened him, and avers that Mr. Lane started, as he thought to draw a weapon, and he struck him with a poker, and turned him away from the house. Later in the day Mr. Lane was found by J. M. Hutsell, S. S. Ralls and others and brought to this city, where his wounds were dressed by physicians. He was taken to his home in Bath county by Elgin Sharp and John Crockett. Mr. Lane is about 65 years old and has not been well for some time. It is thought that his mind became affected during his wanderings. He is a brother of Mrs. H. B. Brookway and Mrs. Sarah Thomas, of this city, and one of the most highly respected men in the Sharpsburg section. It is thought that he will soon be all right.

CLEAN UP

The bulky days of spring will soon be with us, when the green sward and the sweet scented flowers will fill our hearts with the joy of living. We should make the best of each day as it comes to us. We should not leave until tomorrow one duty which can be performed today. And this thought brings to our mind a few very important duties which confront us if we would consider the welfare of our people. This town could stand a good thorough clean up. Our good housewives will take care of the homes, but we of the masculine gender might well look to the cleaning of the streets, and the alleys, and the vacant property. Refuse is to be found in many places, and these refuse heaps are breeding spots for germs, and disease, and often of death. We expect our women to keep our homes clean, and sanitary, and attractive—and they do. No censure for neglect is to be placed at their doors. But they have an equal right to expect that we will keep our other surroundings in a like spotless condition. As we receive, so should we give. As we expect of others, so should we do ourselves. Brothers, it is up to us!

And now just keep right on shouting for those better roads we are needing so badly in every direction. Your shouts have been heard already, but they were too weak, too feeble, too half hearted. Put more vim in your words, add greater volume to your tones, and tell everybody to insist to everybody else that we need and must have good roads, good roads, good roads! Keep right on whooping for good roads—as we are whooping at you!

WHAT PAPER MAKERS ARE CONTENDING AGAINST

For a newspaper to be classed among the "yellows" now is no reflection upon the quality of its news columns. No doubt many people have been wondering just what is the reason for the jaundiced hue of many of the pages of the papers, and in some hazy way connect it with the war, which is quite right.

Bleach is scarce and has advanced enormously in price. Before the war it was $28.50 a ton, but now manufacturers of paper are paying as high as 16.5 cents a pound for it, or $330 a ton. Bleach, which is nothing else than chlorine, formerly came to the United States almost entirely from England and Germany. But we have been growing gradually more self-sufficient. Most of the supplies now used in the United States are made at Niagara Falls, in Michigan, and in Pennsylvania. Many new plants have recently started production but the demand is enormous. Not only is chlorine used as a bleach for paper and cloth, but it is now in great war demand for the manufacture of high explosives. The plants of the Du Pont Co. are using vast quantities of it.

Greater activity at the textile mills has increased the demand for bleach, and the paper mills, which a year or so ago were running not over two-thirds full, are now operating at capacity. Imports of paper from England, Norway, Sweden, and elsewhere have been very much reduced.

Everything entering into the manufacture of paper, including the pulp itself, has advanced greatly in price. All chemicals have gone up about 10 per cent since the war broke out. Caustic, which was chiefly imported, is about 100 per cent higher, and dyestuffs have risen 400 to 500 per cent. The pinch is being felt especially in aniline blues, such as rhodamine and indanthrene, which are used to give paper the white shade. So far as the manufacture of colored paper in the United States is concerned, half the concerns making it have been forced to suspend production. Colored paper today is very hard to obtain at any price.

LAW IS DEFIED;

SIDE DOOR BUSY

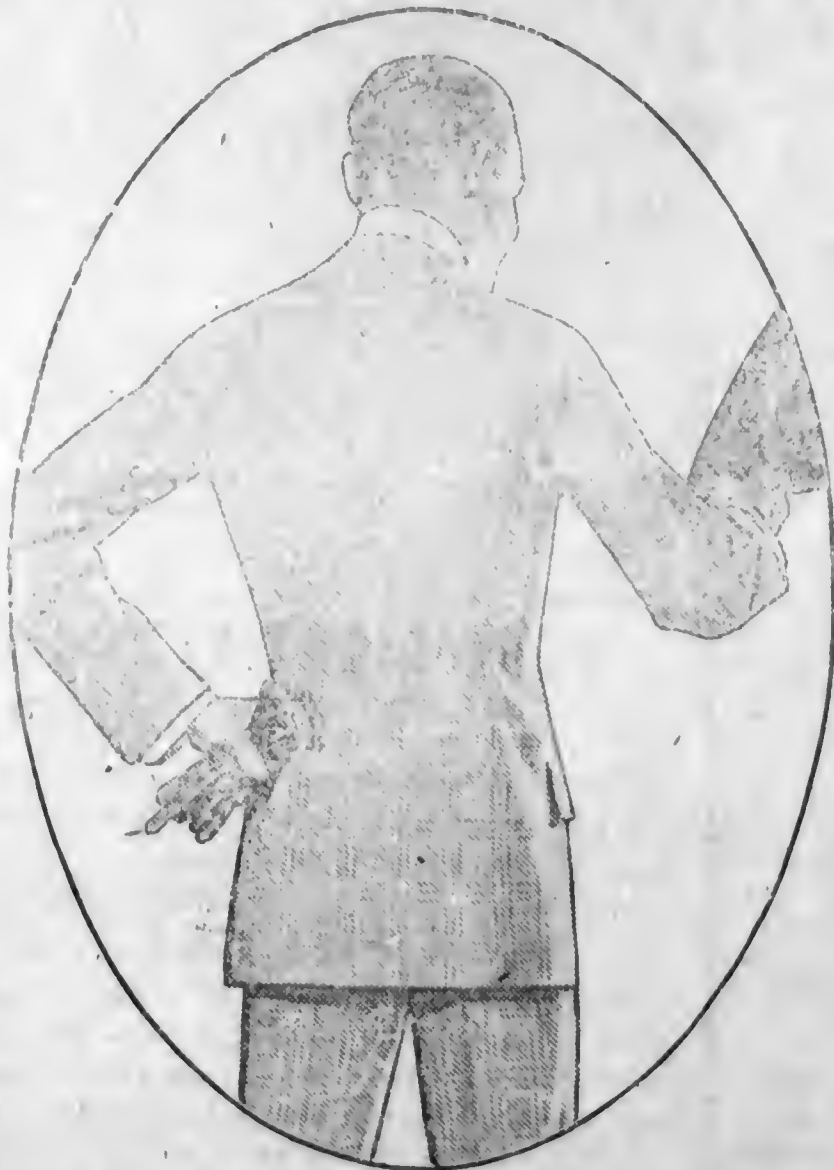

Saloonkeepers at Newport, Ky., defied the Hutchcraft measure Sunday by keeping their saloons open. Most of the front doors were closed, however, but a rushing business was made via the side entrance.

No proprietor was arrested, but a raid was made on a well-known roadhouse, the Bluegrass Inn, late Sunday night, and thirty couples were cited to appear in court to testify.

The saloons remained closed in Covington. The Rev. T. W. Rainey, one of the most active workers for the dry cause, said he was well pleased with Sunday's work. "We closed the saloons in Kenton county and will turn our efforts toward Campbell county next Sunday. The saloons must obey the Sunday law," he said.
